

gill

I

1. [gɪl] n обыкн. pl

1. жабры

gill slit - жаберная щель

2. бородака (у петуха)

3. второй подбородок

4. гимениальная пластинка (в шляпке гриба)

5. текст. гребень6. тех. ребро (радиатора)7. pl сл. кончики стоячего воротничка

◇ to be [to look] rosy [green] about the gills - быть [выглядеть] здоровым [больным], иметь здоровый [больной] вид

to be [to look] white about the gills - быть [выглядеть] испуганным to grease the gills - хорошо поесть

full to the gills - амер. прост. мертвецки пьян2. [gɪl] v

1. потрошить рыбу

2. ловить рыбу жаберными сетями

3. чистить грибы

4. текст. обрабатывать хлопок, шерсть гребенной планкой

II

[gɪl] n

1. глубокий лесистый овраг с ручьём

2. горный поток

II

[dʒɪl] n

1. мера жидкости (= 1/4 пинты)

2. сосуд ёмкостью в 1/4 пинты

gill

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

I. gill¹ /gɪl/ BrE^u AmE^u noun [countable]

1. one of the organs on the sides of a fish through which it breathes

2. full/packed/stuffed etc to the gills informal completely full:

The bar was packed to the gills on Monday.

II. gill² /dʒɪl/ BrE^u AmE^u noun [countable]

a unit for measuring liquid, equal to 1/4 pint. In Britain this is 0.14 litres, and in the US it is 0.12 litres.

gill

OxfordAmericanDictionary (En-En)

I

1. [gɪl]

n. (often gills)

1) the paired respiratory organ of fishes and some amphibians, by which oxygen is extracted from water flowing over surfaces within or attached to the walls of the pharynx

■ an organ of similar function in an invertebrate animal

2) the vertical plates arranged radially on the underside of mushrooms and many toadstools

3) the wattles or dewlap of a fowl

■ (gills) the flesh below a person's jaws and earswe stuffed ourselves to the gills with scrambled eggs and toast(often gills)

2.

v.

1) gut or clean (a fish)

2) catch (a fish) in a gill net [with obj.]

•

- green around the gills

Derivatives:

gilled

[in combination]

a six-gilled shark

Origin:

Middle English: from Old Norse

II [jil]

n. a unit of liquid measure, equal to a quarter of a pint

Origin:

Middle English: from Old French gille 'measure or container for wine,' from late Latin gillo 'water pot.'

III [gil]

n. Brit. a deep ravine, esp. a wooded one

■ a narrow mountain stream

Origin:

Middle English: from Old Norse gil 'deep glen.'

IV [jil]

(also jill)

n.

1) archaic a young woman; a sweetheart

2) a female ferret. Compare with hob II (sense 1)

Origin:

late Middle English: abbreviation of the given name Gillian

gills

Freakuency Pack

12500 10747^{MCW}

15000 11204^{COCA}

RANGE: 8k GILLS ⁵⁰³

gills ⁵⁰³

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

³⁷⁰ 31794⁵⁰³ nn2
