

indestructible [ˌɪndɪˈstrʌktəb(ə)l] a неразрушимый

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

indestructible

in-des-tract-ible [indestructible] BrE [ˌɪndɪˈstrʌktəbəl] AmE [ˌɪndɪˈstrʌktəbəl] adjective

that is very strong and cannot easily be destroyed

- plastic containers that are virtually indestructible
- an indestructible bond of friendship

Example Bank:

- Their shells are so hard they are virtually indestructible.

indestructible

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

in-de-struct-i-ble /ˌɪndɪˈstrʌktəbəl/, ˌɪndɪˈstrʌktɪbəl/ BrE AmE adjective

[Word Family: noun: ↑destroyer, ↑destruction; adjective: ↑indestructible, ↑destructive; verb: ↑destroy; adverb: ↑destructively]

too strong to be destroyed:

- her indestructible optimism
- Gold is virtually indestructible.

—indestructibility /ˌɪndɪstrʌktəˈbɪləti, ˌɪndɪstrʌktɪˈbɪləti/ noun [uncountable]

THESAURUS

■ not easily broken or damaged

- strong not easily broken or damaged: The bags are made of strong black plastic. | We need a strong rope for this job.
- tough strong – used especially about something that can be used a lot without damaging it or making it weaker: a pair of tough leather boots | Kitchen floor need to be tough enough to withstand heavy use.
- heavy-duty [only before noun] extremely strong – used about materials, tools, machines etc that are made especially to be used a lot without being easily damaged: heavy-duty rubber gloves | a heavy-duty carpet for the hallway
- sturdy strong and of thick, and not likely to fall over or get broken: a fence made with sturdy wooden posts | The furniture is simple but sturdy.
- unbreakable extremely strong and impossible to break: Babies need to have unbreakable dishes and cups.
- indestructible impossible to break, damage, or destroy, and lasting forever: Gold is virtually indestructible. | The pyramids were built as indestructible tombs for the Pharaohs.
- hard-wearing British English, long-wearing American English used about materials and products that will remain in good condition for a long time even when they are used a lot: Ceramic tiles are easy to keep clean and hard-wearing. | a hard-wearing fabric
- durable especially written used about materials and products that will remain in good condition for a long time – often used on product labels: The jacket has a durable nylon lining. | Varnish is more durable than paint.
- robust especially written strongly made – used especially about the structure of something, for example a vehicle or machine: a mountain bike with a robust frame | The hardware for the computer must be robust and inexpensive.

indestructible

Frequency Pack

12500 11062^{MCW}

15000 12376^{COCA}

RANGE: 11k INDESTRUCTIBLE³⁷⁰

indestructible ³⁶¹

indestructibly ⁹

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

319 38417³⁶¹ jj