

clove

- I [kləʊv] n
1) зубок (чесночной головки)
2) бот. луковичка
- II
1. [kləʊv] n обыкн. pl
гвоздика (пряность)
oil of cloves - гвоздичное масло
2. [kləʊv] v
приправлять гвоздикой
- II [kləʊv] n уст.
клов (мера веса шерсти и сыра, ≈7-10 фунтам)
- IV [kləʊv] n амер.
скалистый утёс; ущелье (обыкн. употр. с названием мест)
- V
[kləʊv] past и p. p. *om cleave*¹

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

clove

clove [clove cloves] BrE [kləʊv] ^m NAmE [kloʊv] ^m noun

- countable, uncountable the dried flower of a tropical tree, used in cooking as a spice, especially to give flavour to sweet foods.
Cloves look like small nails.
 - countable a garlic ~ | a ~ of garlic one of the small separate sections of a ↑bulb (= the round underground part) of ↑garlic
 - Use one crushed clove of garlic.
- see also ↑cleave v.

Word Origin:

sense 1 Middle English Old French clou de girofle 'nail of gillyflower' sense 2 Old English clufu Germanic German Knoblauch Old High German klovvoluh ↑cleave 'to split something in two'

clove

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

I. clove¹ /kləʊv $ kloʊv/ BrE ^m AmE ^m noun [countable]

[Sense 1: Language: Old English; Origin: clufu]

[Sense 2: Date: 1100-1200; Language: Old French; Origin: clou (de girofle) 'nail of clove', from Latin clavus 'nail']

- one of the separate parts that form a ↑garlic plant:
a clove of garlic
- a black ↑spice (=something used to give a special taste to food) with a strong sweet smell

II. clove² BrE ^m AmE ^m a past tense of ↑cleave

clove

Freakuency Pack

12500 11410^{MCW}
15000 4267^{COCA}
RANGE: 11k CLOVE 4322

clove 1191

cloves 3065

cloven 66

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

809 19112¹¹⁷⁴ nn1

16 193436¹⁷ vvd
