

recompense

1. ['rekəmpens] n

- 1) компенсация; возмещение (убытков)
sum granted as a recompense - установленная (судом) сумма компенсации recompense for injury - компенсация за увечье
- 2) вознаграждение (за труды)
to work without recompense - работать без вознаграждения
in recompense for help - в награду за помощь
2. (справедливое) возмездие, наказание
recompense for one's sins - наказание /расплата/ за грехи

2. ['rekəmpens] v

- 1) 1) компенсировать; возмещать (убытки)
to be recompensed for losses [for damages] - получить компенсацию за убытки [за ущерб]
- 2) вознаграждать (за труды)
to recompense a person for his services [his trouble] - вознаградить кого-л. за услуги [за беспокойство]
2. воздать, отплатить кому-л.
to recompense smb. for his misdeeds - наказать кого-л. за злодеяния
to recompense good with evil - отплатить злом за добро

recompense

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

rec-om-pense [recompense recompenses recompensed recompensing] noun,

verb BrE ['rekəmpens] ^u NAmE ['rekəmpens] ^u noun uncountable ~ (for sth/sb) (formal)

something, usually money, that you are given because you have suffered in some way, or as a payment for sth

- There must be adequate recompense for workers who lose their jobs.
- I received $1 000 in recompense for loss of earnings.

Word Origin:

late Middle English: from Old French, from the verb recompenser 'do a favour to requite a loss', from late Latin recompensare, from Latin re- 'again' (also expressing intensive force) + compensare 'weigh one thing against another'.

Example Bank:

- He was given £1 000 in recompense for his loss.
- She received a gift as recompense.
- Substantial damages were paid in recompense.
- recompense from the government
- I received $1 000 from the company in recompense for loss of earnings.

verb ~ sb (for sth) (formal)

to do sth for sb or give them a payment for sth that they have suffered

Syn: ↑compensate

- There was no attempt to recompense the miners for the loss of their jobs.

Verb forms:

verb forms
present simple
I / you / we / they	recompense
	BrE /'rekəmpens/
	NAmE /'rekəmpens/
he / she / it	recompenses
	BrE /'rekəmpensɪz/
	NAmE /'rekəmpensɪz/
past simple, past participle	recompensed
	BrE /'rekəmpensɪd/
	NAmE /'rekəmpensɪd/
-ing form	recompensing
	BrE /'rekəmpensɪŋ/
	NAmE /'rekəmpensɪŋ/

Word Origin:

late Middle English: from Old French, from the verb recompenser 'do a favour to requite a loss', from late Latin recompensare, from Latin re- 'again' (also expressing intensive force) + compensare 'weigh one thing against another'.

Example Bank:

- Higher pay is on offer to recompense players for the extra hours they'll be working.
- She believes that offenders should recompense their victims in some way.

recompense

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

1. rec-om-pense ¹ /'rekəmpens/ BrE ^u AmE ^u verb [transitive]

[Date: 1300-1400; Language: French; Origin: recompenser, from Latin compensare; ⇨ ↑compensate] formal to give someone a payment for trouble or losses that you have caused them, or a reward for their efforts to help you SYN compensate

recompense somebody for something

" The charge recompenses the bank for the costs involved.

II. recompense ² BrE " AmE " noun [singular, uncountable]

formal something that you give to someone for trouble or losses that you have caused them, or as a reward for their help SYN

compensation

recompense for

" financial recompense for the victims of violence

recompense

Freakuency Pack

12500 11456^{MCW}

15000 14468^{COCA}

RANGE: 7k RECOMPENSE 204

recompense 186

recompensed 13

recompensing 0

recompenses 5

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

¹⁴⁸ 59127¹⁶² nn1

¹⁵ 206636¹⁵ vvi

⁹ 275619⁹ vv0
