

insatiable[ɪnˈseɪʃəb(ə)] a (of, for)

ненасытный, жадный; неутолимый insatiable appetites - ненасытные аппетиты insatiable desire - неутолимое желание insatiable ambition - неумеренное честолюбие insatiable of learning [of fame] - жаждущий знаний [славы]

insatiable

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

in·sati·able BrE [ɪnˈseɪʃəbəl] <sup>u</sup> NAmE [ɪnˈseɪʃəbəl] <sup>u</sup> adjective

always wanting more of sth; not able to be satisfied

- an insatiable appetite/curiosity/thirst
- There seems to be an insatiable demand for more powerful computers.

Derived Word ↑insatiablyWord Origin:[insatiable insatiably] late Middle English: from Old French insaciable or Latin insatiabilis, from in- ‘not’ + satiare ‘fill, satisfy’, from satis ‘enough’.Example Bank:

- There's an apparently insatiable demand for this kind of programme.
- The public seems to have an insatiable appetite for celebrity news.

insatiable

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

in sa tia ble /ɪnˈseɪʃəbəl/ BrE <sup>u</sup> AmE <sup>u</sup> adjective[Date: 1400-1500; Language: Old French; Origin: Latin insatiabilis, from satiare ‘to satisfy’] always wanting more and more of something insatiable appetite/desire/demand etc (for something)

his insatiable appetite for power

our insatiable thirst for knowledge

—insatiably *adverbinsatiable

Freakuency Pack

12500 12302<sup>MCW</sup>15000 10047<sup>COCA</sup>RANGE: 13k INSATIABLE <sup>677</sup>insatiable <sup>648</sup>insatiably <sup>29</sup>

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

<sup>612</sup> 27413<sup>648</sup> jj