

marked[mɑ:kt] a

- 1) имеющий какие-л. знаки, вехи; помеченный, отмеченный
 marked pages [passages] - помеченные /отмеченные/ страницы [отрывки] marked cards - крапленые карты marked map - воен. карта с нанесённой обстановкой; поднятая карта
 - 2) испачканный
 a less easily marked binding would have been better - менее марки переплёт был бы лучше
2. заметный, явный; ясно различимый
 a marked change in smb. [in smb.'s appearance, in smb.'s behaviour] - заметная перемена в ком-л. [в чьей-л. внешности, в чьём-л. поведении]
 marked difference - заметная разница, заметное различие
 a marked distaste for bloodshed - явное отвращение к кровопролитию marked disadvantage - явный ущерб; явно невыгодное положение
 a man of marked ability - человек с незаурядными способностями marked man - редк. заметный/видный, известный/ человек [ср. тж. \diamond] it is becoming more marked - это становится всё заметнее there was a marked change in his attitude to me - его отношение ко мне заметно изменилось he spoke with a marked American accent - он говорил с явным американским акцентом \diamond a marked man - человек, взятый на заметку; человек, за которым или за действиями которого следят с враждебностью /подозрительностью/ [ср. тж. 2]

marked

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

marked BrE [mɑːkt] ^ˈ NAmE [mɑːrkt] ^ˈ adjective*1. easy to see*Syn: ↑noticeable, Syn: ↑distinct

- a marked difference/improvement
- a marked increase in profits
- She is quiet and studious, in marked contrast to her sister.
- The recent advertising campaign has had a marked effect on sales.

2. (linguistics) (of a word or form of a word) showing a particular feature or style, such as being formal or informalOpp: ↑unmarkedIdiom: ↑marked manDerived Word ↑markedlyThesaurus:*marked [marked markedly] adj. (especially written)

- There has been a marked increase in profits.

definite • • decided • • noticeable • • conspicuous • • unmistakable/unmistakeable • • sharp • • clear • • striking • •distinct • |especially written pronounced • |disapproving glaring •a marked/definite/noticeable/sharp/clear/striking/distinct/pronounced differencea marked/definite/decided/noticeable/sharp/clear/striking/distinct improvementa marked/conspicuous/striking/distinct/pronounced feature*Marked, definite or pronounced? Definite is used most often to talk about things that you can see or feel; marked is used most often in a business context; pronounced is used most often to talk about physical or personal characteristics

- a definite smell of gas
- a marked effect on sales
- a pronounced limp

Example Bank:

- The animal's tail has clearly marked stripes.
- There is a strongly marked difference between the two creatures.
- These trout are beautifully marked with bright red spots.
- I have noticed a marked increase in profits over the last six months.

marked

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

marked /mɑːkt/ BrE ^ˈ AmE ^ˈ adjective[Word Family: verb: ↑mark; adverb: ↑markedly; adjective: ↑marked ≠ ↑unmarked]1. [only before noun] very easy to notice SYN noticeable :

- a marked lack of enthusiasm
- The patient showed a marked improvement in her condition after changing medication.
- Miller's organized desk stood in marked contrast to the rest of the office.

2. marked man/woman a person who is in danger because someone wants to harm them—markedly /'mɑːkədli, 'mɑːkədli/ adverb:

- Johnson and Rivera have markedly different leadership styles.

marked12500 3456^{MCW}15000 900^{COCA}RANGE: 1k MARK 87042

mark 49698

marked 13628

markedly 1603

unmarked 1154

marker 2840

markers 2676

marking 2697

markings 1093

marks 11653

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

6905 4632⁸⁴⁹¹ *vvn*2710 9592³²⁵⁹ *jj*1761 14085¹⁸⁷⁸ vvd
