

telegraph

1. [ˈtelɪɡrɑːf] n

1. телеграф
telegraph cable - телеграфный кабель
telegraph form - бланк для телеграммы
to send news by telegraph - сообщить новости телеграфом
2. редк. семафор (мж. optical telegraph)
3. уст. телеграмма
4. спорт. доска, на которой фиксируется счёт

2. [ˈtelɪɡrɑːf] v

- 1) телеграфировать
to telegraph (to) one's brother - телеграфировать брату
to telegraph the news - телеграфировать новости telegraph to him to come - телеграфируй (тё), чтобы он приехал
he telegraphed for his son - он телеграфировал сыну, чтобы тот приехал
he telegraphed that he would arrive tomorrow - он телеграфировал, что завтра приезжает
- 2) передавать по телеграфу
2. редк. сигнализировать
3. спорт. показывать счёт

telegraph

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

tele·graph [ˈtelɪɡrəf, ˈtelɪɡræf] noun, verb BrE

[ˈtelɪɡrɑːf] ^{BrE} ^{NAme} [ˈtelɪɡræf] ^{NAme}

noun uncountable

a method of sending messages over long distances, using wires that carry electrical signals
• telegraph wires

Word Origin:

early 18th cent.: from French télégraphe, from télé- 'at a distance' + -graphe (from French, based on Greek graphos 'written, writing').

verb

1. intransitive, transitive ~ (sth) to send a message by [↑]telegraph
2. transitive ~ sth to make it clear to people what you are going to do, often without intending to
• A tiny movement of her arm had telegraphed her intention to hit out.

Verb forms:

verb forms
present simple
I / you / we / they	telegraph
	BrE / ˈtelɪɡrɑːf/
	NAme / ˈtelɪɡræf/
he / she / it	telegraphs
	BrE / ˈtelɪɡrɑːfs/
	NAme / ˈtelɪɡræfs/
past simple, past participle	telegraphed
	BrE / ˈtelɪɡrɑːft/
	NAme / ˈtelɪɡræft/
-ing form	telegraphing
	BrE / ˈtelɪɡrɑːfɪŋ/
	NAme / ˈtelɪɡræfɪŋ/

Word Origin:

early 18th cent.: from French télégraphe, from télé- 'at a distance' + -graphe (from French, based on Greek graphos 'written, writing').

telegraph

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

I. telɪˈɡrɑːf, ˈtelɪɡræf $ -græf/ BrE ^{NAme} AmE ^{NAme} noun

[Date: 1700-1800; Language: French; Origin: télégraphe, from télé- 'tele-' + -graphe (from Late Latin -graphus 'written')]

1. [uncountable] an old-fashioned method of sending messages using radio or electrical signals
2. [countable] a piece of equipment that receives or sends messages in this way

—telegraphic /,telɪˈɡræfɪk/, ˈtelɪˈɡræfɪk/ adjective

II. telɪˈɡrɑːf ^{BrE} ^{NAme} verb

1. [intransitive and transitive] to send a message by telegraph:
Once he knew where we were, Lewis telegraphed every few hours.
2. [transitive] informal to let people know what you intend to do without saying anything:
A slight movement of the hand telegraphed his intention to shoot.

telegraph

Freakuency Pack

12500 4450 MCW

15000 8662 COCA

RANGE: 4k TELEGRAPH 984

telegraph 708

telegraphs 49

telegraphing 49

telegraphed 135

telegraphic 43

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

519 26285⁶⁹⁶ nn1

10 236716¹² np1
