unacceptable

[ˌʌnəkˈseptəb(ə)l] a

1. неприемлемый

unacceptable terms - неприемлемые условия

2. неприятный, нежеланный

a little help would not be unacceptable to him - небольшая помощь ему будет приятна

unacceptable

un·accept·able [unacceptable unacceptably] BrE [ˌʌnəkˈseptəbl] NAmE [ˌʌnəkˈseptəbl] adjective that you cannot accept, allow or approve of

• Such behaviour is totally unacceptable in a civilized society.

• Noise from the factory has reached an unacceptable level.

Opp: ↑acceptable

Derived Word ↑unacceptably

Example Bank:

• Most people would consider such risks wholly unacceptable.

• Such a solution would be quite unacceptable to the majority of people.

• The cost of these proposed changes makes them unacceptable.

• There is nothing inherently unacceptable in these proposals.

• socially unacceptable behaviour

• socially unacceptable conduct

• Raising taxes now would be politically unacceptable.

unacceptable

un‧ac‧cept‧a‧ble /ˌʌnəkˈseptəbəl◂/ BrE AmE adjective

[Word Family: adjective: ↑acceptable ≠ ↑unacceptable, ↑accepted; verb: ↑accept; noun: ↑acceptance; adverb: ↑acceptably ≠ ↑unacceptably]

something that is unacceptable is so wrong or bad that you think it should not be allowed:

I found her attitude totally unacceptable.

unacceptable levels of pollution

unacceptable to

The recommendations from this report are unacceptable to many black people.

unacceptable to do something

It was socially unacceptable to discuss sex then.

—unacceptably adverb:

Unemployment is unacceptably high.

unacceptable

125005272MCW

15000612COCA

RANGE: 1k ACCEPT 77649

accept 25665

acceptability 812

acceptable 9110

acceptably 98

unacceptable 3216

acceptance 8674

acceptances 544

accepted 20679

accepting 5885

accepts 2810

unacceptably 156

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

272997063201 jj

1520635315 nnu