  ### THESAURUS
  ▪ delete to remove something that has been written down or stored in a computer: I think you should delete the second paragraph. | You can delete any files that are no longer required.
  ▪ cut to remove a section from a piece of writing or a film: You'll have to cut some of your essay if it's over 1,500 words. | A couple of scenes had to be cut because they were too violent.
  ▪ cross something out to draw a line through a word to show that it was a mistake or that you want to change what you have written: If you make a mistake in the exam, just cross it out. | I've crossed out the names of people who can't come.
  ▪ rub something out British English, erase American English to remove writing or pictures from paper with a rubber, or from a board with a cloth: Use a pencil so you can rub out your mistakes. | I had to rub the whole thing out and start again.
  ▪ erase to remove sounds or pictures that have been recorded on a machine: You can erase the tape or record over it. | Somehow all my photographs had been erased.
