

radiator['reɪdiətə] *n*1. тех.

1) батарея (отопления)

2) радиатор

2. физ. излучатель

radiator of sound - а) источник звука; б) громкоговоритель

radiator

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

ra·di·a·tor ['rædiətə(r)] BrE ['reɪdiətə(r)] AmE ['reɪdiətə] noun

1. a hollow metal device for heating rooms. Radiators are usually connected by pipes through which hot water is sent
 - a central heating system with a radiator in each room

2. a device for cooling the engine of a vehicle or an aircraft

Example Bank:

- He filled his car radiator with water.
- Top up the radiator before making a long journey.
- You'll need to bleed the radiators to remove the airlocks.
- The radiator in the kitchen isn't working.
- You need to bleed the radiator if air gets trapped inside.

radiator

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

ra·di·a·tor /'reɪdiətə $ -ər/ BrE AmE noun [countable]

1. a thin metal container that is fastened to a wall and through which hot water passes to provide heat for a room
2. the part of a car or aircraft which stops the engine from getting too hot

radiator

Freakuency Pack

12500 7308^{MCW}15000 8865^{COCA}RANGE: 4k RADIATOR ⁹²⁰radiator ⁷⁰²radiators ²¹⁸

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

482 26157⁷⁰² nn1