

custard['kʌstəd] n

жидкий заварной крем (из яиц, молока)

custard powder - заварной крем-концентрат

custard pie - торт с заварным кремом

custard

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

cus·tard [custard custards] BrE ['kʌstəd] [ⓘ] NAmE ['kʌstərd] [ⓘ] noun

1. uncountable (especially BrE) (NAmE usually custard 'sauce') a sweet yellow sauce made from milk, sugar, eggs and flour, usually served hot with cooked fruit, ↑puddings, etc

- apple pie and custard

2. countable, uncountable a mixture of eggs, milk and sugar baked until it is firm

Word Origin:

late Middle English crustarde, custarde (denoting an open pie containing meat or fruit in a spiced or sweetened sauce thickened with eggs), from Old French crouste, from Latin crusta 'rind, shell, crust'.

Example Bank:

- Strain the custard to remove lumps.
- some apple pie and custard

custard

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

cus·tard /'kʌstəd $ -ərd/ BrE [ⓘ] AmE [ⓘ] noun

[Date: 1600-1700; Origin: custard, crustade type of pie (14-17 centuries), probably from Old French crouste 'crust']

1. [uncountable] a sweet yellow sauce that is made with milk, sugar, eggs, and flour

2. [uncountable and countable] a soft baked mixture of milk, sugar, and eggs

custard

Freakuency Pack

12500 7590^{MCW}15000 8681^{COCA}RANGE: 5k CUSTARD ⁹⁶⁶custard ⁸⁷⁵custards ⁹¹

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

434 22932⁸⁷⁵ nn1