

augment

1. [ˈɔːɡmənt] n
увеличение, прибавление
2. [ɔːg'ment] v
  1. 1) увеличивать, прибавлять
to augment one's power [one's influence] - укрепить свою власть [свое влияние]
he augments his wages by working evenings - он прирабатывает по вечерам /вечерами/
  - 2) редк. увеличиваться, прибавляться
the sound of traffic augments during the morning - по утрам шум транспорта усиливается his family augmented - семья у него выросла /увеличилась/
2. геральд. прибавить знаки отличия к гербу

augment

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

aug-ment [augment augments augmented augmenting] BrE [ɔːɡmənt]

NAme [ɔːɡmənt] verb ~ sth (formal) to increase the amount, value, size, etc. of sth

Derived Word ↑ augmentation

Verb forms: verb forms

|                              |                   |
|------------------------------|-------------------|
| present simple               |                   |
| I / you / we / they          | augment           |
|                              | BrE /ɔːg'ment/    |
|                              | NAme /ɔːg'ment/   |
| he / she / it                | augments          |
|                              | BrE /ɔːg'ments/   |
|                              | NAme /ɔːg'ments/  |
| past simple, past participle | augmented         |
|                              | BrE /ɔːg'mentd/   |
|                              | NAme /ɔːg'mentd/  |
| -ing form                    | augmenting        |
|                              | BrE /ɔːg'mentɪŋ/  |
|                              | NAme /ɔːg'mentɪŋ/ |

Word Origin:

late Middle English: from Old French augmenter (verb), augment (noun), or late Latin augmentare, from Latin augere 'to increase'.

Example Bank:

- He wrote magazine articles in order to augment his income.
- The band had been augmented by two extra trombonists.

augment

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

aug-ment /ɔːɡmənt/ BrE AmE verb [transitive]

[Date: 1300-1400; Language: French; Origin: augmenter, from Late Latin augmentare, from Latin augere 'to increase']

formal to increase the value, amount, effectiveness etc of something:

Any surplus was sold to augment their income.

—augmentation /ɔːɡməntəʃən- mən- $ ,vɔːl- noun [uncountable and countable]

augment

Freakuency Pack

12500 9241 MCW

15000 5894 COCA

RANGE: 8k AUGMENT 2246

augment 779

augments 110

augmented 875

augmenting 198

augmenter 0

augmenters 0

augmentation 284

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

587 28055 <sup>623</sup> vvi

143 60307 <sup>156</sup> vv0