

cursor[ˈkɜːs(ə)rɪ] a

поверхностный, беглый

to get a cursory view of smth. - получить поверхностное представление о чём-л.

cursory inspection - поверхностный осмотр

to give a cursory glance - бросить беглый взгляд

cursor

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

cursor BrE [ˈkɜːs(ə)rɪ] NAmE [ˈkɜːrsəʃɪ] adjective (often disapproving)

done quickly and without giving enough attention to details

Syn: ↑brief, Syn: ↑perfunctory• a cursor glance/examination/inspectionDerived Word ↑cursorilyWord Origin:[cursorily cursor] early 17th cent.: from Latin cursorius 'of a runner', from cursor 'runner', from cursor- 'run', from the verb curre.Example Bank:

• He gave the report a rather cursory look.

cursor

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

cursor /ˈkɜːs(ə)rɪ/ BrE AmE adjective[Date: 1600-1700; Language: Late Latin; Origin: cursorius 'of running', from Latin curre; ⇨ ↑current!]

done very quickly without much attention to details

cursor glance/look

• Even a cursory glance at the figures will tell you that sales are down.

cursor examination/inspection

• a cursory examination of the evidence

—cursorily adverb

• • •

THESAURUS

- quick taking only a short time to do something: I took a quick look at the map. | Do I have time for a quick shower before we go out?
- short lasting only a short time: You can do a short course in diving. | The meeting was shorter than I'd expected.
- brief especially written lasting only a short time. Brief is more formal than short, and is used especially in written English: The President made a brief visit to Buenos Aires. | a brief introduction to Piaget's ideas | a brief pause in the rain
- rapid especially written happening in a short period of time – used about changes, increases, improvements etc: a rapid increase in crime | the rapid rate of industrial development
- speedy happening or done as quickly as possible, especially so that you get the result that you want: Best wishes for a speedy recovery. | The restoration work has been making speedy progress.
- prompt done very soon after something else: Thank you for your prompt reply. | the prompt action of the firefighters | Discounts will be offered for prompt payment.
- hasty deciding or doing something very quickly, especially when this has bad results: It was a hasty decision, which he later regretted. | They had to make a hasty departure.
- cursor formal looking at something very quickly without much attention to detail: Even a cursory glance at these figures shows that there is a problem. | The police conducted a cursory search of the property.

cursor

Freakuency Pack

12500 9933<sup>MCW</sup>15000 10012<sup>COCA</sup>RANGE: 9k CURSORY 682

cursor 646

cursoriness 0

cursorily 36

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

615 27483<sup>646</sup> jj